

YOUTH DEVELOPMENT WORKER: UNMASKING MASCULINITY

Do you want to be a part of a vibrant youth organisation and youth movement?

Do you want to work alongside young people to create meaningful social change?

Answered yes?

We want to hear from you!

About us:

The Jack Kane Community Centre, is situated in the heart of the Greater Craigmillar area in North East Edinburgh. We believe that children, young people, and adults are powerful agents of change.

By working alongside local communities, we create opportunities for people to develop their skills, build confidence, and realise their full potential. Our work is rooted in inclusion, participation, and empowerment. We deliver a wide range of high-quality activities, programmes, and support services for children, young people, and families, providing safe, welcoming spaces where people can connect, learn, and thrive.

We are seeking an experienced, motivated, and innovative Youth Development Worker to lead the delivery of our Unmasking Masculinity project, funded by the National Lottery's Young Start programme.

Running until June 2028, Unmasking Masculinity works in partnership with young men aged 11–21 to explore and promote positive masculinity. Using a youth-led, co-production approach, the successful candidate will empower young people to shape and deliver the project, fostering meaningful conversations and peer-led learning.

The role will focus on delivering prevention, education, and early intervention initiatives that challenge harmful gender stereotypes, promote healthy relationships, and help reduce youth violence by supporting young men to become positive role models within their communities.
